Engel & Völkers – Finest Real Estate Worldwide

Engel & Völkers is one of the leading bank-independent real estate brokerage companies in Europe, specializing in the buying and selling of top quality residential properties in first class locations with 409 offices responsible for commercial and residential real estate. It is where Global meets Local and we pride ourselves on our extensive local market knowledge and long time experience of our associates in the Tampa Bay area. Combined with our well developed global network of offices, we provide maximum resources to all our clients.

Engel & Völkers optimizes its service with real estate shops which guarantee a more personal service in local markets and the effective presentation and marketing of properties. We provide a professional, personal service and follow-up activities with personnel for whom reliability and discretion go without saying.

Lisa Reeves is a luxury residential and commercial investment real estate agent hired to work with Westshore Community Development Corporation as a project manager of their Community Land Trust Project Westshore Landings One. She comes with extensive knowledge of the Tampa Bay real estate market and affordable housing development.
